Basic Steps in Planning Nursing Research: From Question to Proposal is the perfect introduction to the research process. It details the development of an effective research plan, and guides readers through all stages of the process from finding a research topic, to the final written proposal. The support for the house starts with a stable foundation or ground floor (in a research proposal: the Introduction, Background/Literature Review, Overview of the Framework you chose, and Research Question), but then builds on that base to create the second floor and heart of the house (the research methodology), and the house is completed when ... In South Africa, there appears to be poor understanding about using a systematic review as an acceptable research method in post-graduate nursing education. The Online Writing Lab (OWL) at Purdue University houses writing resources and instructional material, and we provide these as a free service of the Writing Lab at Purdue.
