

Download Bernard Durin Beetles And Other Insects

French painter and illustrator Bernard Durin (1940-1988) discovered the beauty of insects for himself and for his art during a walk in Provence in 1972. Before you step on your next insect with the idea of c'est la vie, take a peek at the artwork from Bernard Durin in this hard-to-find book (this would go in the buried treasure section of your book collection). There's a whole earth community that has nothing to do with human beings. We are unaware of them and they don't care much about us either. There's a whole earth community that has nothing to do with human beings.
